

Iverbe Presents

Esteem Dance Camp 2012

At Your Neighborhood Studio located in Culver City

Ages 5–14; Grades K-8

9:00am–1:00pm, July 2–July 27 (Four 1 week sessions)

Esteem Productions was recently established with the purpose of creating a unique and positive outlet for dancing, performing, and strengthening self-esteem. This youth dance program is open to ages 5-18 and offers dancers the opportunity to perform in various arenas and sporting events! The focus of this program is to create a positive learning experience while developing choreography and team building skills.

Esteem was founded by two passionate dancers, Lindsay Rodolico and Shannon Gaffney, who are eager to spread their enthusiasm and talents with their future dancers.

Come and join Esteem Dance Camp and receive the gift of unique performance outlets, self-empowerment, fun experiences, and the opportunity to...

...be YOU!

Meet the Directors

Lindsay Rodolico grew up in Philadelphia and graduated from Temple University, where she received her BS in Kinesiology as well as her K-12 Teaching Certification. She danced professionally as captain of the AFL's Philadelphia Soul and has since then had the opportunity to choreograph for different teams in the professional sports industry. In 2009, she started the first ever Jr. dance team in MLB history for the LA Dodgers. Lindsay currently teaches at Echo Horizon School in Culver City and continues to share her love of choreography and dance with children on the west and east coasts.

Shannon Gaffney grew up studying dance with the Brandywine Ballet Company, and the Rock School West in a suburb of Philadelphia. After further studying at the University of the Arts, she performed professionally for the MISL Philadelphia Kixx Dance Team. In 2008, she moved to Los Angeles to pursue dance and, in 2009, became a coach for the Jr. Dodgers Dancers. She currently works as an instructor at Pure Barre studio in Brentwood and continues to train, perform, and choreograph in the LA area.
